Pasadena Capitalist Will Build Here

J. V. Elliott Purchases Old Kerckhoff Place of Fifty-two Acres—Will Build Residence, Barn and Other Buildings.

Through the sale to J. V. Elliott, a Pasadena banker and capitalist, of the 52 acres of oranges and lemons on Workman avenue, formerly known as the W. G. Kerckhoff ranch, the Covina valley has added a citizen who has commenced at once to make improvements that will run into many thousands of dollars.

The sale was made on August 25 by R. D. Davis of Pasadena, who had purchased the ranch a few months before of F. P. Connor. The ranch is known as "Hesperia Arboleda," and is one of the finest places in the Covina valley.

Mr. Elliott, who has been making preparations for a long time to build a home in the heart of the citrus district, has already begun the excavation for a cellar to his new home, which will be a two-story, pretentious residence, nearly on the site of the old ranch-house, which has been razed. He will at the same time build a smaller dwelling in bungalow style to be used by his foreman, and other buildings will be a ranch barn and a tank-house. The plans for the new residence call for an expenditure which will make it one of the really fine homes of the valley.

Mr. Elliott stated just after he closed the deal for the ranch that he would employ all Covina help, whenever it was possible. The buildings will all be erected by Covina carpenters. George Coolman will have charge of the work, which will be done by the day from plans which the owner has accepted. The ranch at the present time is being cared for by J. D. Gant.

For many years the old Kerckhoff ranch was considered the finest single holding in this section. It was for a long time under the superintendency of Otto Anderson. Mr. Kerckhoff planted many valuable shrubs and trees on the place, and the entrance to the grounds is reached through a winding drive through a park of trees. Mr. Elliott is at present living at 1333 Westworth Place, Pasadena.

Republican Harmony In Organization

County Central Committee Organizes for Purpose of Electing Entire Republican State Ticket—Covina Represented.

At the meeting for organization of the Republican County Central Committee, held Tuesday in Los Angeles county court house, J. L. Matthews, editor of the Argus, was appointed to serve on the executive committee as representative from the 68th Assembly District. He was also appointed to the sub-committee on publicity for the November campaign and the committee on organization and expenditure.

The work of the central committee was in every way harmonious. W. M. Bowen of Los Angeles was appointed chairman, which met with satisfaction on the part of the members. The committee will immediately become active in relation to the partisan Republican ticket. It was the sense of the meeting that the Republican county central committee make no suggestions or become in any way active concerning the candidates for non-partisan offices, taking the stand that the county central committee is a legal body to attend to partisan affairs only.

It is felt among the Republican leaders that the county center was better organized for Republicanism. There is not a note of discord among the members of the committee, the only aim in view being that of assisting in electing the entire Republican state ticket in November. A campaign is to be waged that will fade into paleness anything which has ever been held in the state before.

Dr. Cline Visits "Old Dominion"

Covina Dentist Says That South is Making Wonderful Strides—Old Country Looks Good to Him.

Dr. F. J. Cline, a dentist, with rooms in the First National bank building, has just returned from a visit of six weeks in Virginia, his old home.

"They have made wonderful strides in the South during the last fifteen years," says Dr. Cline. "Cities and towns are all taking on an atmosphere of prosperity. Although there was a long drouth over the South this summer, I was very agreeably surprised to find the people in comfortable circumstances, happy and looking forward to even more prosperity. The South is coming into its own, after a long period of depression."

Dr. Cline visited his old home at Weyer's Cave, Virginia, where he says that his father's old homestead has been sold three times since the family sold it, and each time at an increase in price. He also visited friends in Harrisonburg and the immediate vicinity.

Dr. Cline was accompanied by his son, Frederick. They went to Orange, N. J., where they have friends. The Covina man says that the whole of the middle west looks very prosperous, and the condition which he found in his journey made him proud of the advancement of his country. He added, however, that he was glad to get back among the orange groves.

Special Edition Coming On "Newspaper Day"

Argus Will Compile Facts and Print Pictures Taken in Covina Valley—Movement is State-Wide and Far-Reaching.

The Covina Argus, on October 3, will issue a special number in conformity with the state-wide movement known as "Newspaper Day." The Argus issues on Saturday, and will therefore put out the special number on October 3.

In the special number will be views of Covina, its ranch country, and a resume of what is being done in the city. Special attention will be paid to the matter of planting flowers and shrubs in anticipation of the coming of visitors in 1915.

More than 1,000,000 newspapers will be mailed from California to friends, relatives or business associates all over the world on October 1.

Following the suggestion of Judge Thomas J. Hayes, the movement for a uniform California newspaper day has been taken up and enthusiastically endorsed by civic bodies of practically every town in the state. As a result, the indications are that it will prove to be one of the biggest advertising stunts ever pulled off.

The idea is an original one of Judge Hayes and already has proven popular on a smaller scale. The inaugurator of the movement tried it out in San Diego last year and it met with such success that another was tried including Imperial valley. Again the day brought results, and so Judge Hayes decided to try his scheme on a larger scale and to include the entire state.

The plan is to have every person in California mail at least one paper. At any rate it is expected that each family will send away a newspaper. As practically every household subscribes for at least one paper, it will not cost more than one, two or possibly three cents to observe and take part in the day's program. After reading a paper one can simply fold it up and send it to a friend on October 1.

COVINA STORE BUILDINGS UNDERGOING CHANGES

The Empress theater building on Citrus avenue has been remodelled, and the owner, C. F. Clements, has made it into a modern store building. The store front is of the best type for a store of diversified business, or for department store purposes.

The buildings owned by A. P. Kerckhoff on Badillo street are being made over into stores. The owner will have them ready for rent in the early fall.

WHY I HAVE NOT CULTIVATED FOR TWO YEARS AND BELIEVE IN SUMMER COVER CROP

BY S. W. FUNK.

After two years of experience, I believe in it because of results, but the scientific reasons have been, and are, that constant summer cultivation stirs up the humus, nitrogen and bacteria to be burned out by the hot sun, and that perhaps 90 per cent of the nitrogen and humus applied, especially in the spring, is burned out. Winter cover-crop, constantly cultivated up to the hot sun, is burned out. Many days during the summer the thermometer, if placed on the soil, will run above 200 degrees. The nitrogen nodules on cover crop turned up and exposed to the sun will all be evaporated inside of a day. On real hot days, in a few hours.

I also believe that it is against nature to constantly be cutting off the fiber-feeding roots that are coming up nearer the surface to get nitrogen; where nitrification is most extensively taking place; where the soil is moist; where bacteria multiplies most abundantly. Beneficial bacteria cannot multiply rapidly deep in the cold soil, and thus the process of nitrification cannot be carried on, hence a shortage of nitrates for the tree.

The Leaf-Mottling

The upper part of my grove that was washed so badly, in growing strawberries for nine years, had become sickly and mottled. A large amount of manure was applied in the past eight years to bring it back, yet without results.

Dr. R. R. Snowden of Los Angeles analyzed it and found the humus very deficient. There is only one place it could go so quickly and that is to burn out. The constant irrigation every week had leached out the lime, which was very deficient, and very excessive in magnesia. The past four years there has been 25 tons of lime and gypsum to the acre applied.

Two years ago the manure was cut off and summer cover crop of buckwheat was substituted. During the winter the place grew up to what is called malvin. This was cut up with a double disc in February, and the whipporwill pea was sowed. The damp, cold weather caused them to fall, so I allowed the weeds to grow. Each year I flooded the ground with the full 25 inches in one row, 330 feet long, shutting it off when it would reach next to the last tree. There has been no sign of wilt.

I have been giving the 10 acres 60 hours, 25 inches, each month.

Before growing the cover crop and thoroughly cultivating, there would be some trees wilting before next irrigation on some lighter spots.

The trees made a remarkable change last year, and this year remarkably well, considering the heavy scale. The color is many times better than two years ago. The year of the freeze I had a heavy crop. This year on the 500 8-year-old buds, and 500 small trees, I picked almost 3000 boxes of Valencia and the crop set for another year will not fall much short of this year, notwithstanding the bad condition of scale.

Cover Crops Save Money

Another reason why I believe in cover crop mulch during the summer is because it saves about $30 per month expense in preparing for irrigation and cultivation.

Another reason is because it saves washing the soil. The water coming through at the lower end is practically clear.

This fall, as soon as the rains come, I expect to put in the Canadian cow pea and then ridge it up for the next summer's irrigation. After ridging I will then sow the Melilotus clover and not work it in. The peas make their growth during the winter and towards spring the Melilotus grows very rapidly. Those crops will practically be matured by the winter rains and while the trees are dormant. The mulch will shade the ground and prevent evaporation and burning of the soil, and in November I will disc it up again.

At the time the trees are needing all they can draw on during the summer the cover crop will not be robbing them.

By allowing the nitrogen nodules to remain deep in the soil during the summer and decay and not evaporate, the feeding roots can get available nitrogen. The analysis of my soil showed deficient in nitrogen, humus, lime and sulphuric acid. After raising the lime to the proper per cent, the cover crop allowed to remain all summer should supply every need of the tree. By the use of the lime the shaded soil can be kept very sweet. I have removed the soil from the trunks of all trees and put in lime to prevent the bark and roots from decaying, thus flooding does not injure.

Large Numbers Attend Azusa Revival Services

Surrounding Towns Come in Delegations to Oliver Evangelistic Meetings—Three Services Tomorrow.

The meetings have continued with increasing interests each night except Monday, with three services Sunday, besides afternoon meetings. Up to and including Wednesday the confessed converts number about or nearly 200. Dr. Oliver does not count his converts by raising the hand or shaking hands, but by actual confession. Men and women, veterans of many series of meetings, have been touched in their hearts and have lined up for Christ, and the end is not yet.

On Sunday evening our friends from Baldwin Park again appeared in force, about 60 coming by team. Wednesday night Covina people, headed by Pastor Catherwood of the Baptist church, took the tabernacle by storm, filling several benches at the front. Upon notice to the head usher, seats were reserved in a body for them.

The meetings are scheduled to continue over next Sunday, when three services will be held. Doubtless the friends from outside points will want to be present at these last services and should come early. If they are coming in bodies and desire seats together, word should be sent to the head usher, phone 335. The hours will be 10, 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock. Blocks of seats will be reserved until ten minutes before the opening hour.

During the week solo music has been rendered by Esley Smith, Mrs. Bouldin, C. A. Griffith and Mr. Barnhouse. Mrs. Roche sang a solo with violin obligato by Miss Frances Roche. The choir has rendered efficient service.

THE CLUB SEASON

With the opening of the season for the Monday Afternoon Club on Monday, October 5, will begin a series of musical and educational programs which will be just a little better than in years past. This club of ladies compares very favorably in its work of advancement with clubs in other cities of much larger population, and the programs of the last few years have been of an excellency that has occasioned surprise among members of other organizations.

The ladies are concentrating energy and talent this year by holding meetings but twice each month instead of once a week. This gives them an opportunity to raise the standard of programs with the expenditure of practically the same amount of money.

On the opening of the club a program for the first meeting will be musical, with Mrs. Henry L. Marshall of Covina giving Indian songs in costume, with stage setting. Madame Monascl, a violinist of more than ordinary ability, whose home is in Baldwin Park, and who is known to all music-lovers in Los Angeles city, will also be on this program. Mrs. Harry Damereel will be the pianist and accompanist.

And at the succeeding meeting Judge Frank G. Tyrrell will speak on the amendments that will appear on the November ballot. This meeting comes on October 19, and it is hoped that the ladies will somehow arrange for the men to be present. If Judge Tyrrell can briefly explain the purposes of the proposed amendments, he can find a good chance for instruction among the men as well as the women, for it is safe to say that 90 per cent of the men are as much in the dark on amendments as anyone.

Judge Tyrrell is a splendid speaker, an orator, with undoubted ability to clarify his points. It is a decided piece of enjoyment to hear him talk. His mind is a storehouse of beautiful quotations from poetry and prose. In these days when everything seems to be colorless in public speaking; when oratory has become in a sense a thing to be avoided—it is a refreshing thing to hear a man talk who can really talk, who can thrill you with something else besides statistics, and who has clung to the beautiful in phraseology when all public speaking is largely practical, stubby and unadorned. Judge Tyrrell will certainly be greeted by a large audience.

The third meeting will be a "Peace Congress," with Dr. Myers of Los Angeles speaking. He will read portions from Israel Zangwill's "The War God," and will talk on the position of religion and worship as related to the making of the world an human slaughterhouse.

The clubhouse has improved its exterior appearance to a very decided extent during the summer. The building of an arboreal lattice fence around the property, with vines trained on it, has been the principal improvement. In the enclosure vines, shrubs and flowers have been planted. It will be very beautiful in another six months. Mrs. Albert Shearer, the club president, has a number of ideas for the advancement of club work during the year, and the ladies all talk and feel in an optimistic vein about the future of this organization. The club never was in a better financial condition, it is said.

The program committee this year is composed of Mrs. E. V. Rice, chairman, Mrs. J. J. Morgan, Mrs. W. W. Nash, Mrs. Theodore Lipke and Mrs. John D. Bixby. On these ladies will fall the responsibility of making the year a successful one. The ladies intend to be active in the promotion of beautifying within the city, which is one of the preparations being made by Los Angeles county for the coming of the visitors to the Expositions next year. The club itself will enter the contest among similar organizations for prizes offered by the county in the beautifying contest. Prizes are offered to municipalities, to women's clubs, railroads, schools and other organizations. The Monday Afternoon Club has already set a fine example in the beautifying of the exterior of its property.

Crimson Clover Prices Are Still Soaring

Vetch-Seed Scarce and High—Department of Agriculture Says That War Will Make It Hard to Get Good Seed.

Prices for imported crimson clover and hairy vetch seed have recently shown such a marked upward tendency that specialists of the department fear that the cost of these seeds, of which Europe is the chief source, will interfere with the increasing use of these leguminous cover crops. In fact, it is feared that the prices of the seed of these legumes may go so high as to make it inadvisable to plant them this year.

Before the present European conditions arose, crimson clover seed was selling at from $4 to $5 per bushel. Up to August 15 there was a scarcity of this seed in the United States, owing to the fact that the receipts from Europe were smaller than usual. The prices then advanced to from $7.50 to $9 per bushel. Since that date importations have continued to arrive, until there is now more imported seed available for fall seeding than there was in this country a year ago at this time. This seed, according to the department's information, was all imported at approximately the same price as that sold for $4 to $4.50 per bushel in the early part of the season. The present high price, therefore, is regarded by the department as unwarranted, from the standpoint of the supply and the import price of the seed. Some dealers are continuing to sell at the former price, but these are exceptions.

If the present high price is maintained, the specialists are doubtful whether crimson clover can be profitably used as a green-manure crop for seeding in corn or on vacant ground, or under other conditions where the catch is not reasonably certain. Under such conditions they point out that it will be better practice to sow rye this fall and use the difference in price in adding nitrogen to the soil in the form of nitrate of soda or some other highly nitrogenous fertilizer. The rye will afford a winter cover, preventing washing and leaching, and can be plowed under in the spring to add humus to the soil.

When crimson clover is being used regularly as a winter cover crop in orchard culture, or where local experience indicates that a good catch and a good crop are practically certain, a higher price for the seed will no doubt be justified.

A somewhat similar condition exists with reference to hairy vetch seed. There has been approximately six-sevenths as much seed imported since November 1, 1913, as in the year previous. This shortage, however, is partly counterbalanced by the increasing domestic production of hairy vetch seed. Wherever the price of hairy vetch seed is found to be exorbitant, the same change in farm practice is recommended as that suggested in the case of crimson clover.

HUNTERS ARE SUCCESSFUL AT COLD BROOK CAMP

(Azusa Pomotronic.) Dr. Thomas, who returned from Cold Brook camp Wednesday, reports that Fred Williams shot a beautiful two-point buck near his camp at Pine Flats. Together with several other Azusa men, Williams has a cabin built at that point and has it provisioned for a season's hunting. This section has so far proven the most fertile field for sportsmen this season.

S. E. Skidmore and Wilford Clark left Wednesday morning to go to the camp for two weeks' hunting and fishing. They are both old time campers in the canyon and will probably make a good showing for themselves. Bill Clark rather specializes in rattlesnake skins and Cornell Smith expects to have a nice new bunch of them to display when the boys get back. Skid has one of the best hunter's noses in this section, together with an awful appetite for animal skins. His share will probably include some nice ones to tan.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

THE TEN VIRGINS.
Matthew 25:1-13—Sept. 13.
"Watch therefore; for ye know not the day nor the hour."—Verse 13.

THE parable of today's study is supposed to have been uttered by our Lord about three days before His crucifixion, as part of His response to the question, "What shall be the sign of Thy Coming and of the end of the Age?" In the preceding chapter the Master traces various experiences of His people down to the time of His Second Coming.

This parable has not been applicable at all times and under all conditions. This is shown by the first word, "Then"—at that time—"the Kingdom of Heaven will be likened unto ten virgins." The parable does not describe the world in general, but merely the virgin class—the Church—the pure ones who have left the world, have come to God through Christ, have been justified by faith in His blood, and thus have been made prospective members of the Kingdom class, the "Bride class." This parable shows, then, that in the end of this Gospel Age a separation, division, will take place in the true Church of Christ.

With the Jews, a betrothal took place between Bride and Bridegroom about a year before marriage. During that year any unfaithfulness to the Bridegroom annulled the contract, which was usually made through intermediaries. So, during this Gospel Age, a Church is being betrothed to Christ, and covenant obligations are being entered into. These agreements are made through brethren, ministers, servants, of the Lord and the Church.

Parousia and Epiphania.

Many Bible students hold that this parable began to have its fulfillment in the Millerite Movement, which in 1844 culminated in disappointment. For some fourteen years prior a cry had gone forth throughout the Church that the Second Coming of Christ was at hand. History tells us that many noble characters of all denominations believed the Message and went forth to meet the Bridegroom. But the Bridegroom tarried. Then all the virgins slumbered and slept. Later, at midnight, the Bridegroom came apparently; and announcements were made to that effect.

An increasing number of Bible students believe that this latter cry sounded forth just thirty years after the disappointment of Wm. Miller's followers; namely, in 1874. They do not claim that Jesus came in the flesh then; on the contrary, they hold that He will never come in the flesh—that He is flesh no longer, that He has ascended to the spirit plane—far above angels. They call attention to the fact that the Bible distinctly differentiates between the Parousia of Christ and His Epiphania, at His Second Coming.

The word Parousia signifies presence, without in any sense indicating that the presence is visible. The word Epiphania signifies the revealing of one already present. These Bible students claim that in the end of this Gospel Age Christ will be present, invisible to men, during a period of forty years, doing a work especially in His Church—rewarding the faithful servants, as shown in the parables of the Pounds and the Talents, and receiving the wise virgins, as in this parable.

The Lamps and the Oil.

The oil of the parable evidently represents the Holy Spirit, while the lamps represent the Bible. In response to the Message, the wise virgins trimmed their lamps—searched the Scriptures. Thus they had light in their lamps, as well as oil, the Holy Spirit, in their hearts. Then the foolish virgins said, "Give us of your oil."

However, there is but one way to get the Holy Spirit—from the Lord Himself and upon His own terms. In order to receive a fresh supply we must look well to our Covenant with the Lord and to our loyalty to the principles of righteousness. This costs something of time and study, perhaps of neglect of the things of this life. It means to forego strife for fame and wealth.

The Foolish Virgins.

and to live close to God. This is the cost of the precious Oil.

Hence, the wise virgins declared, in no ungenerous spirit, that they had none too much of the oil of the Holy Spirit for themselves. Then they advised their brethren who were deficient to go to God, and to seek it by obedience to His Word, by searching the Scriptures, and by close following of the Master's leading in the narrow way.

Meantime, the wise virgins went in, one after another—passing beyond the veil. Then the door was shut. Once in our misunderstanding we thought that this represented that the foolish virgins and all the remainder of mankind were banished to eternal torment. Now, however, we notice that the door shut in the Kingdom class. While others will never enter that Kingdom, God has other blessings for them, to come through the Kingdom class—Christ and His Bride.

Baldwin Park Bank Is Now Assured

Thriving Village on Boulevard Attracts Glendale Man, Who Will Capitalize for $25,000—Will Erect a Building.

On a lot at the turn of the boulevard in Baldwin Park, property owned by Dr. Locher, a new bank is to be started, and preparations are now in progress for the erection of the building.

The promoters are C. M. Church of Glendale, and others, many of whom reside in Baldwin Park country. Mr. Church is the president of banks in Glendale, Norwalk, Highland Park and Montebello.

The cashier will be a Mr. Scott, who is heavily interested in the bank. The capital stock will be $25,000. The property originally belonged to L. A. Murphy, whose orange ranch adjoins the site, but was recently purchased by Dr. Locher. The bank will erect its own building, which will probably be of concrete.

Mr. Church is known as one of the shrewdest and best of businessmen in Southern California. He said that he looked over the territory very carefully before deciding to start a bank in Baldwin Park, and he thinks that the situation is better even than in some of the other localities where he is operating. The country is engaged in raising alfalfa, potatoes, walnuts, and oranges, and during the last seven years has settled up rapidly.

GOLDEN WEDDING CEREMONY FOR MR. AND MRS. REED

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mead of 6518 Pollard street, Los Angeles, celebrated their golden wedding Saturday evening, September 5. They are well known in Covina as they lived for several years on Orange avenue. About fifty relatives and friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brydolf and daughter of San Bernardino, Miss E. White of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Mercer and son of Elliot, Ia., and Mrs. Ayers and daughters of Covina, as well as many from Los Angeles. A ceremony was performed by Rev. Bunker of Garvanza M. E. church. Those standing with the bride and groom were their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bidlick, and grandson an wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bidlick, three generations being represented. Mrs. F. E. Russell presided at the piano, playing the wedding march. A fine repast was served to which all did justice. The evening was spent in a regular old family reunion style.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead were married in Monmouth, Ill., September 5, 1864. They moved to Iowa in 1870, and to California in 1904, living on a ranch near Covina, and moved to their present home about three years ago, where they have settled down to spend the remainder of their days, enjoying all the good things that there are in a life well lived and surrounded by a large circle of relatives and friends. A large number of beautiful flowers were presented, as well as a costly collection of fine presents. A gold shower of over $50 was one of the surprises of the occasion. The groom is 78 years old, while his wife is 73. In spite of their years they were as young as any present.

At a late hour the guests departed for their homes feeling that it had been an evening well spent.

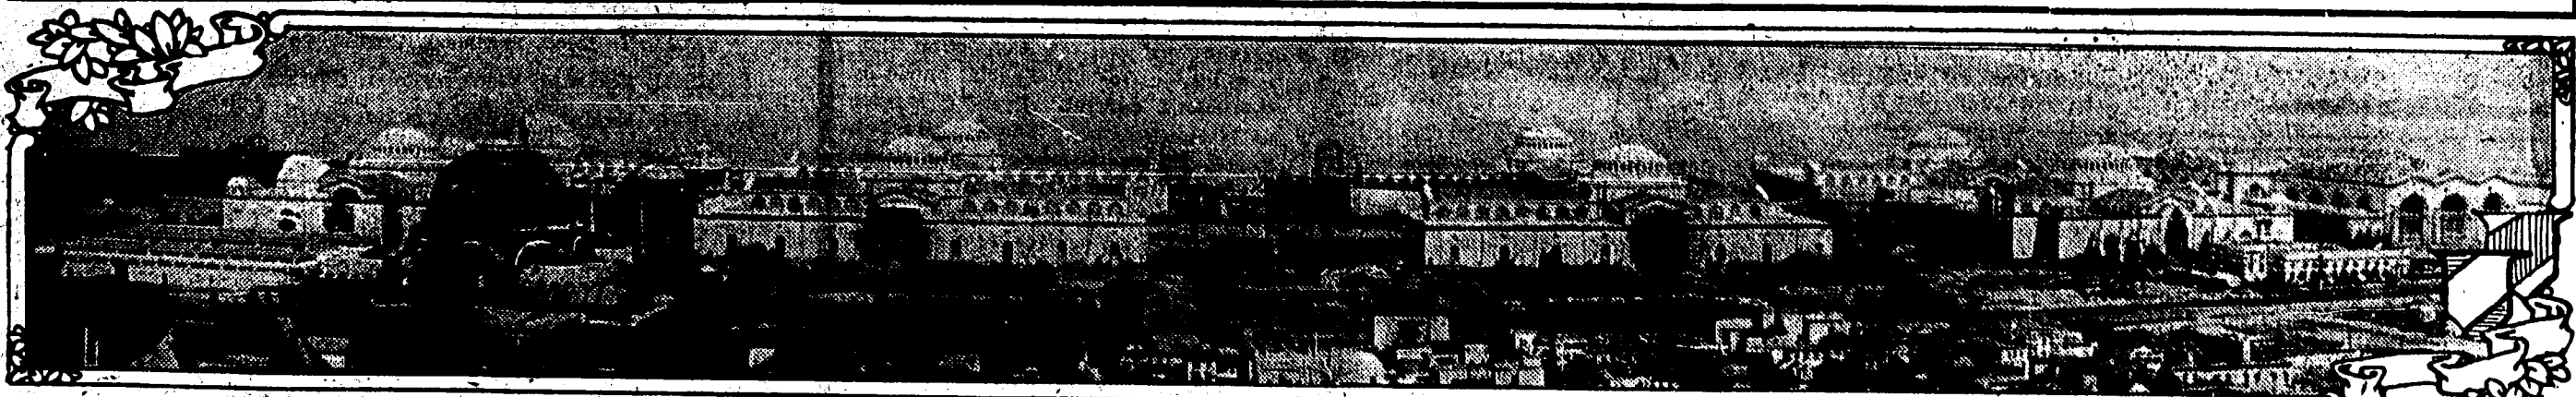

HYGIENIC LABORATORY WAGES WAR ON SYPHILIS

Hereafter the victims of syphilis may learn from the state hygienic laboratory at the University of California whether this dangerous but curable disease still lurks in their systems, threatening, if neglected, future madness, paralysis, or death. Some of the most horrible tragedies of human life will be forestalled by this vital new work, now entrusted by the State Board of Health to Director W. A. Sawyer of the hygienic laboratory.

Is there any tragedy more hideous, ask the medical investigators of the university, than that of the man who mistakenly believes himself cured of syphilis, marries, and then learns, too late, that the disease has lingered undetected, learns this horror through the heartrending evidence of an imbecile, stillborn, or deformed child, of an innocent wife condemned to childlessness or to life-long invalidism?

Is there any tragedy more hideous than that of the man who is stricken with paralysis or brain troubles, 20 years after he had supposed himself cured from specific disease? All those years, though no one had suspected it, the spirochaetes have been at work in his brain and his nervous system. Too late the wretched family discovers that a disease neglected has now worked irreparable harm, and that paralysis, softening of the brain, locomotor ataxia, brain tumors, paresis, or general insanity have come in all their horror—and needlessly, since adequate treatment, sufficiently long continued, would in all probability have prevented these fearful developments, now culminating after years and years of a false fancied security.

Splendors of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Forecasted In Marvels of Art and Architecture

This photograph was taken in May.

GREATEST AND MOST BRILLIANT OF WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS WILL BE COMPLETED TO LAST DETAIL ON OPENING DAY.

PANORAMA of about one-fourth of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, showing nine of the great exhibit palaces which are now within 5 per cent of being complete, lacking only the towers, arches and festival courts. Each of these palaces covers from five to nine acres. The setting in a series of 'subtropical gardens, extending for two and one-half miles along the San Francisco bay front adjacent to the Golden Gate, is the most beautiful and inspiring ever given an exposition. The vacant space in the center will contain the wonderful ten acre Court of the Universe, dominated by the scintillating Tower of Jewels, 435 feet high. To the right, not shown in the picture, is the concession area, named "El Camino" (The Highway), while to the left, outside the picture, are foreign and state buildings, live stock pavilions, race track, military and aviation fields and Palace of Fine Arts.

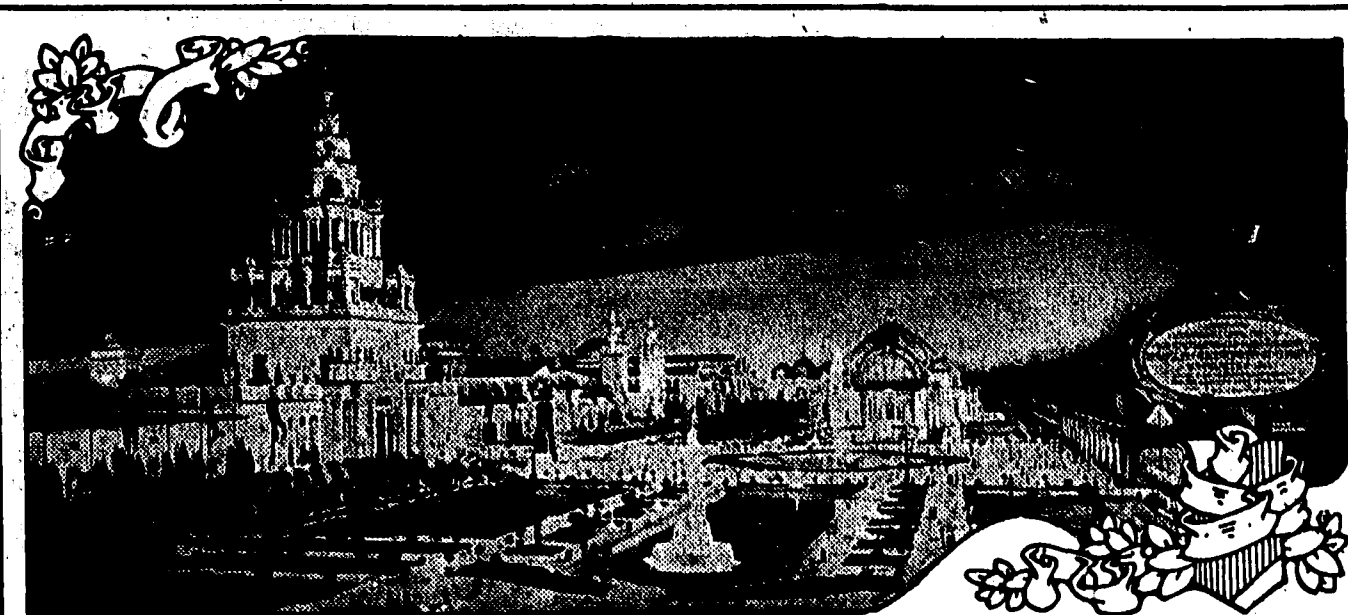

GLOBE trotters and officials from all parts of the world who have visited the Panama-Pacific International Exposition grounds at San Francisco have expressed their astonishment and delight at the wonders already revealed there. "The most stupendous undertaking of the kind in history," "The furthest advanced toward completion" and "The most beautiful site and color effect of any exposition in the world" are a few of the expressions from men who are familiar with all of the great world expositions of modern times.

The exhibit palaces are of vast size. In the Palace of Machinery 20,000 people in masquerade costumes danced all night beneath the illuminated arches over nine acres of floor space. Lincoln Beachey flew an aeroplane in the same building.

No exposition has ever attracted such attention abroad. Thirty-six of the world's nations have accepted America's invitation to participate and will present on an elaborate scale exhibits revealing their progress. The participating nations are as follows: Argentina, Australia, Austria, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Great Britain, Guatemala, Haiti, Holland, Honduras, Italy, Japan, Liberia, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Panama, Persia, Peru, Portugal, Salvador, Siam, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Work is being rushed on the splendid illuminated towers, fountains and festival courts, where will be shown the masterpieces of architectural, landscape and sculptured decorations and the wonderful outdoor mural paintings, some of them 100 feet long and executed by eleven of America's greatest artists. The garden and landscape effects are almost completed at this writing, over a million rare trees, flowering shrubs and plants being used.

This masterpiece of universal expositions already gives proof that it will present the masterpieces of the world of art and that in its harmonious beauty, its high educational value and utility it will be unsurpassed in history.

NATIONS OF FAR EAST TO EXHIBIT IN 1915.

The commission sent by the United States government to the nations of the far east to request their participation in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco next year returned to New York May 12, bringing news that eight of those governments will be represented.

The commissioners, including ex-Governor Alva Adams of Colorado, Thomas G. Stallsmith, chief of the agricultural department of the Exposition, and Welton Stallsmith, secretary, gave out the following list of countries, with the appropriations made by each:

China	$1,000,000
Philippine Islands	500,000
Japan	500,000
Australia	400,000
Siam	250,000
Dutch East India	250,000
New Zealand	200,000
Coolin China	150,000

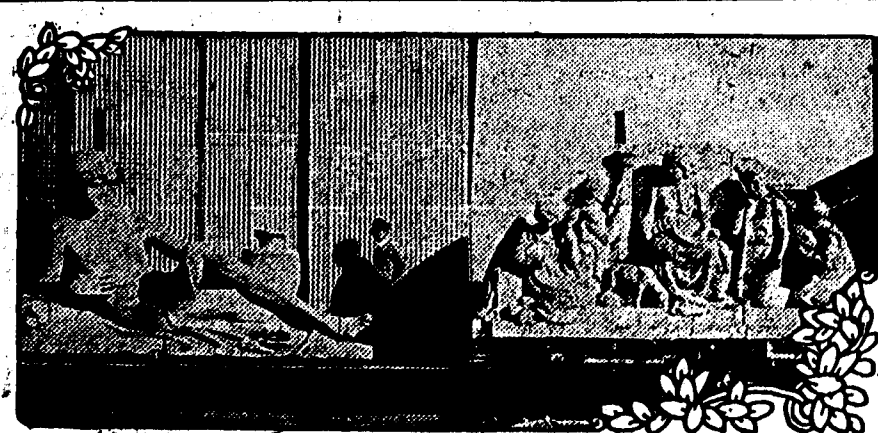

This brings the total number of foreign countries which have decided to participate officially up to thirty-six, Austria being the latest to swing into line, with an appropriation of $400,000, half of which is contributed by commercial organizations.

The dome is the largest ever constructed, being 152 feet in diameter and 180 feet high and surmounted by a basket thirty feet in diameter, which will be filled with growing flowers. The dome, lighted from within by whirling colored lights, will resemble a huge fire opal.

WORSHIPPING AT MOLDY SHRINES.

It probably is a shock to art worshippers to dwell upon the thought that ancient paintings in old-world cathedrals have been destroyed or marred by military vandalism. It may, or may not, be true that such things have come to pass. We certainly have no authentic account of such vandalism, or anything really authentic in relation to the fighting in war-embroidered Europe.

But the Argus has a tendency to believe that there is too much worshipping at moldy shrines. Those in a position to know have raved without stint over the Rubens pictures; they have stood with bated breath before the evidences of Raphael's subtle soul; they have written many books on the effect of Michael Angelo on the art of succeeding centuries, and in the meantime there is a suspicion that better work has often been done by modern painters and sculptors who never received anything but an indifferent and secondary attention.

Of course, this is undoubtedly heresy, and if coming from an authoritative source would raise a storm of indignation. That some of us are frankly puzzled over values when looking at great pictures is to be supposed, as art is only appreciated through education, or at least, the ultra heights are only reached in that fashion. But we cling to the belief that the worshipping of something because it is old and the artist is dead, is one of the common and puzzling things in our complicated and puzzling existence.

Mark Twain watched a group of students copying a great piece of mural work in an old-world cathedral. "I couldn't help but notice," said the American humorist, "how much better the copies were than the original." In this remark, Mark Twain undoubtedly employed his prerogative of exaggeration in order to make his point. But some of us get a sympathetic thrill from this bold attack on tradition.

If every painting of the old school were burned in the wake of advancing armies another school of endeavor would arise, and who shall say that the modernists would not depict as well or better? Surely, they would not slavishly copy the atrocious anatomy of the Raphael pictures, nor would it be necessary to follow the crudity and vacuity of the Dutch school. An English painter who has been for years a knight in his own country because of his undoubted greatness in depiction on canvas, recently said that greater pictures were being painted by hundreds of moderns—greater than any of the ancient school. A prime minister of England, in delivering an address at the dedication of a great library in Scotland, spoke of the tremendous pile of masonry as a "morgue for dead books," and intimated that the world would advance faster if the books were burned. Which raised a storm of protest, of course, and perhaps his remark was not grounded on sound philosophy.

But that we are tied to the chariot wheels of tradition is nowhere brought to notice so sharply as in this war, where the newspapers cannot forget the alleged fact that great paintings have been destroyed. That wonderful work of art, the human being, whose blood soaked into the sod, leaving the original put a pulpy piece of carrion, is overshadowed in the horror which arises because a Rubens has met with sacrilege.

If the world had spent more concentrated thought on the human organism, the masterpiece straight from God, there would have been no occasion for the mourning over desecrated masterpieces of ancient artists, the loss of which would not cause the world to flutter for a moment on its axis.

BREAKING THE CAMEL'S BACK.

Every little bit added to what the rancher pays makes just a little bit more. That's how we size up the situation in the citrus industry—that the eight-hour law would not break the rancher up in business if it wasn't for the fact that the industry is carrying about all the expense it can stand at the present time, without saddling it with more.

The eight-hour law will make it almost twice as expensive to fumigate, to irrigate and cultivate. A twelve-hour run of water means that two eight-hour men must be employed. Manager Powell, in speaking of the reason why we have not been able to make citrus by-products and sell them at a profit, said that there was but one trouble—the high wages paid in America, against low wages in Italy and Sicily. To pass a universal eight-hour law in California will mean that the citrus industry will immediately suffer.

Highways in the Mountains.

Supervisor C. D. Manning of the first district, while in Covina last Saturday, spoke of his desire to further an all-embracing scheme for the building of mountain roadways, everywhere where feasible in the county. Captain Manning is working toward this end, and says that the road through the Antelope valley via the San Gabriel canyon is among the projects being considered favorably. There is no doubt, in his opinion, but that this San Gabriel road will be built, if not at once, within a few years.

The supervisors of Los Angeles county did a most wise and praiseworthy act when they authorized the county treasury to buy $275,000 of the state highway bonds in order to secure the completion of the county system. The supervisors had previously purchased $225,000 of these bonds, thus making good their original promise to put $500,000 into the work.

The state highway had just previously let a contract for over twelve miles of this road on what is known as the Ridge Route, which runs from the Kern county line southward through a most picturesque part of California. The road traverses almost the top of the mountains, coming down through the Tejon country.

There was a dispute about this, as to whether it should run through Antelope valley or by the other line. The supervisors have done their best to satisfy the people in Antelope valley by accepting the Mint canyon route connecting Newhall with Lancaster.

Then the supervisors asked the state to appropriate $400,000 to be spent in the construction of mountain roads in Los Angeles county, one of these being the Arroyo Seco route, another the San Gabriel route. The resolution passed by the board recites that the state has spent $750,000 in building roads, mostly in the northern part of California. The county of Los Angeles is contributing 25 per cent of the original state bond issue for highways amounting to $18,000,000, and this county has received much less than its quota of that sum.

Within the last four years the road system of the county has been marvelously improved, and now Los Angeles county possesses a very extensive system of highways hard and substantial and smooth as a billiard ball. This is a necessary improvement in view of the climatic attractions of the country, which draws tens of thousands of tourists here every year, and in these days of automobiles there is little comfort or joy in life in spite of the best conditions unless the roads are in perfect order.

The coming year is expected to bring visitors to the state who will number not thousands but millions. Tens of thousands of them will own automobiles, and their visit will be enhanced many hundredfold by the facilities afforded for travel in this fascinating manner by the road system constructed during the last four or five years, which now reaches, with few interruptions, all parts of the state of California. There need be no hesitation of the part of our visitors as to the condition of the roads.

Quick Lime for Spraying

Many are inquiring what it will cost. At present it will cost $12 per ton f.o.b. your station in 15 ton minimum cars, and we loan the barrels.

Even if you have fumigated it will pay to spray with whitewash to clean the tree of sooty mold fungus and tree moss and prevent unhatched scale from lodging, preventing brown rot, blue mold, etc., killing and preventing red and white spider and other vermin and finally going on the ground to sweeten the soil, helping to prevent root rot, gum disease, etc. If you cannot afford to spray the tree all over it will require little lime and labor to spray the inside and trunks with whitewash. This alone will be a valuable investment.

LIME CARBONATE.

We have perfectly dry powdered lime carbonate running about 85 per cent pure, with about 4 per cent water soluble potash and 4 per cent trioxide, at $4.10 per ton, net f.o.b. your station, not including cost of sacks. This is a bargain.

GYPSUM.

We also have dried gypsum, guaranteed of 90 per cent pure, at $5.15 f.o.b. Santa Fe, not including cost of sacks.

QUICK LIME SLIGHTLY COLORED with iron for fertilizer, $9.50.

In hard times it is economy to make fertilizers already in the soil available with lime and gypsum. This applies to good times also.

FORMER COVINA RANCHER DIES FROM PARALYSIS

While performing the act of a Good Samaritan, Frank B. Gaebke, well known in the Covina valley where he lived for several years, was stricken with paralysis in Los Angeles, and after a brief illness, died on Tuesday evening of this week.

Mr. Gaebke formerly lived on the corner of Vincent street and San Bernardino road in Irwindale, and he also owned other property in the valley. Some time ago he moved to Los Angeles. He has suffered two shocks of paralysis, and the third one proved fatal. It was while he was visiting a sick neighbor that he collapsed in his chair.

The funeral was held from the home at 1800 West Vernon street, and the body was interred in a Los Angeles cemetery. He leaves a wife and two little girls. A number of Covina people who had known and respected the deceased, were in attendance at the obsequies.

VETERAN SOLDIER DIES AT SAWTELLE HOME

James Hodges, an old veteran of the Civil War, who was admitted to the Soldier's Home at Sawtelle from Covina in 1904, died at that place on Wednesday of this week.

Comrade Hodges was 74 years old. He belonged to Company C, Seventh Wisconsin Infantry, and was a native of Illinois. He was not related to any of the same name in the valley.

Basketball Material Looks Good at High

For the last few days the members of the incoming freshman class have been enrolling, and the indications are that this class will have about 70 or 80 members.

It seems that the school board has shown great lack of foresight in opening the school on circus day. Such an injustice will cause terrible lamentation and rending of hair among our new freshmen.

Owing to the fact that football does not constitute a part of our athletic activities, we shall immediately turn our attention to boys' basketball. Last year our team was successful in winning the league championship, and this year we hope to repeat our success.

Four of the members of our last year's team—Morris, Dallin, Kendall and Edmondson—will be with us again, but Ward Austin, who played a brilliant game at forward, graduated, and we shall have his place to fill. With last year's entire second team—Nigg, Feddersohn, Stebbins, Ralph Smith, and Clarke, back and center—Ross on the job, we should be able to put a fine team in the field. There is also a lot of new material among the freshmen, which ought to help us out a great deal.

This year there will be a class on debating in the school. This subject will be open to any who have time to take it.

PRESIDENT ACKNOWLEDGES MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

A black-bordered letter from the White House was received last week by J. L. Matthews, editor of the Argus, containing a personal acknowledgement of a message of sympathy contained in the Argus after the death of Mrs. Wilson. The message read: "The president and members of his family acknowledge with grateful appreciation your kind appreciation of sympathy."

STUDEBAKER BUSINESS IS A GROWING BUSINESS

A Studebaker "20" was sold this week to Leo Willoughby, by the Smith & Bryan agency.

W. D. Smith said this week that the quiet times which have been experienced in California the past year, as well as pretty generally over the country, has assisted the Studebaker business. If anything, and he bases his contention on the fact that ranchers and business men are buying a moderate-priced car in preference to the expensive ones. The practical age in automobile selling has arrived, he says. Automobile purchasers are looking at the "teeth and hocks" with a sharp eye to durability and reasonable running expense. And in this category the Studebaker is getting its share of the business.—Adv.

WHITTIER WALNUT DISTRICT HAS FIRST CLASS CROP

WHITTIER, Sept. 9.—Walnut harvest has begun in earnest in this district, although a few growers began gathering the crop last week and are already washing nuts. By the middle of the month the nut harvest will be in full swing. Growers here are agreed that the harvest is from two to three weeks ahead of the usual time. Weather conditions have been fine and the nuts are falling well. Also the shucks come off easily, and prospects are good for a large percentage of first-class nuts. Market conditions appear extremely favorable.

The importation of foreign nuts will be greatly restricted by reason of the world's war conditions. The Chinese or Manchuria nuts are bottled up by the Japanese-German difficulties on the Chinese coast, and the French nuts are held in France by government regulations forbidding the export of foodstuffs. With foreign nuts cut off from this country and with local nuts of a high quality growers here are forecasting good prices and heavy demands.

MAKING THE FARM PAY IS BUREAU IDEA WHICH WILL BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING

The Covina Valley Farmers' Club will hold its first fall meeting at the home of the president, Ben F. Thorpe, next Saturday.

Seldom has it been possible to arrange for an interesting meeting at the very first of the year, but this program has a significance that is causing it to be talked about. B. H. Crocheron, who is the man who is pushing the "county farm bureau" idea, will be the speaker. There is also a remarkably good musical program.

Mr. Crocheron will talk on the necessity for the farmers supporting this farm bureau with their personal interest. In explaining the principal features of the farm bureau, Mr. Crocheron said recently:

A farm bureau is an organization of farmers and ranchers who combine to promote agriculture through co-operative study of farm conditions.

For many years there have been farmers' clubs, granges, institutes, unions, and alliances. These have been more or less successful but many have passed away, perhaps from lack of usefulness. Some of these organizations have not had a definite purpose and have therefore failed to find a permanent place in rural affairs.

The farm bureau is distinct from all of these. It is not primarily a social organization; neither is it essentially to unite farmers so as to lower prices of products sold. But it is formed to bring together for mutual co-operation those farmers who want to investigate the fundamental problems that are involved in production on their farms.

Every state and territory has at least one experimental farm supported by federal and state funds. These have been exceedingly valuable because the results therefrom were noted by men whose business and interest it was to observe. The acreages of these farms were small; their crops were often meagre—and yet they have been worth millions beyond their cost because of records of production and conditions under which they were grown were known and noted.

Many of our farm problems are already solved on the farms of the nation. Individuals have found the solution of vexing questions that are agitating the experiment stations and agricultural colleges. But these solutions usually fall out of sight unnoticed or are known only to the man on whose farm they occur. If these unknown and unnoticed experiments could be gathered they would at once add much to our view of agriculture.

In America there are on the average more than 100,000 farms to each "experimental farm." Obviously, if the results on some small percentage of these could be viewed from the same standpoint as at the experimental farm, the benefits would enormously outnumber the records achieved by the experimental stations. It is, of course, impossible to gather all this material or to note all the changing conditions on farms. But it may be possible to gather together in one county organization the wide-awake and interested farmers who will compare their results with those of others and, in a more or less scientific way, plan out experiments and demonstrations on their own farms. Such is a farm bureau.

Fundamentally, then, a farm bureau for the county can be collectively a sort of giant experiment station with several hundred observers who hold a monthly caucus to compare results.

The farm bureau has a trained man to aid it—The Farm Adviser. It is his business to help interpret results, to point out new lines of work and to deduce conclusions from the evidence at hand. The farm bureau can be of greater value to the country than the farm adviser. Together, they can be of more benefit than either alone.

Other activities may concern the farm bureau besides local research in agricultural problems.

The farm bureau may be sort of a rural chamber of commerce and thus be the guardian of rural affairs. It can take the lead in agitation for good roads, for better schools, and for cheaper methods of buying and selling. Perhaps, most of all, it can help promote the social institutions of country life. Some rural neighbors are so starved for recreational meetings that they will come out to anything from a patent-medicine show to a school meeting. The farm bureau can help put more recreation into rural life. Every country neighborhood ought to have some social gathering at least once a week. It is almost as much needed as the spiritual congregations at the church, or the educational assemblages of the children at the school house.

But very surely and insistently the farm bureau is not first and foremost for these—good and desirable as they may be. Perhaps, the farm bureau can help to buy cheaper and better seeds, can help to boost the local socials, can encourage the faltering school teacher, can get out and talk for good roads—but its first and surest function is to increase the local knowledge of agricultural fact.

KEEPING UP INTEREST IN CANYON ROAD

The Azusa Pomotrophic says that a live interest is being kept up in regard to the canyon road into Antelope valley by the Chamber of Commerce and every step taken that will further the project. At present the efforts of the club are directed toward an educative campaign with the members of the assembly from this section of the state. As the road cannot be built without state funds it has become necessary that the endeavors of the canyon boosters include all members of the assembly that can be reached. It is expected that if money is to be had from the state for either the San Gabriel canyon route or the Arroyo Seco route, it will come as a direct appropriation by the legislature and not under the State Aid Act.

The county surveyors have been working on the survey for more than a week, starting near the divide and working both ways. This is encouraging to the local boosters because it will put data and figures in their hands early in the night before the legislature. Both Johnstone and Lostutter, candidates for election from this district, have been posted on our route and either will be in position to look out for our interests in the assembly.

FOOTHILL BOULEVARD UNDERGOES REPAIRS

(Glendora Gleaner.) Autoists will note with pleasure, as will others, that the public highway east of Glendora and on through the county line, has been repaired much to the advantage of this much traveled thoroughfare.

After having been brought back to its original smoothness there is some sort of satisfaction in driving over this magnificent stretch of highway—all the more tempting on account of the grandeur of the mountains on the one side and the great fertile valley on the other with its teeming citrus fruit groves which never falls of interest to the pleasure seeker and the passing tourist. Verily, it is good to know that the upkeep of the paved highways are under the direct supervision of men like Joyner and that it is possible to get away from the roads adjacent to Los Angeles once in a while.

The frayed edges of the road, observed pretty much everywhere, is a standing reproach to the niggardly policy of stretching out the road length at the expense of the width. The cost of repairing the road will be proportionately a great deal more than if the roadbed had been laid broad enough to accommodate the traffic in the first place to say nothing of the wear and tear of the machine.

MISS EDWARDS RETURNS FROM GEORGE JR. REPUBLIC

Miss Eva D. Edwards, who is the vice-principal of the Covina grammar school, was employed this summer at the California George Junior Republic just south of Pomona. Miss Edwards is an old time friend of that institution and always has had a great interest in that work, feeling that it was really a part of the educational work for boys in which she is so vitally interested.

The Junior Republic has an attendance of 75 young men between 14 and 21 years of age, and who come from all sections of California. They earn from 9 to 12c an hour in different industries and trades and also go to school. It is said that a few of the young men of Covina have graduated from that school and are now making splendid records for themselves.

SHOOTS DEER WITHIN MILE OF GLENDORA

Harry Kuhn succeeded in landing a fine four-pronged buck Wednesday afternoon.

Kuhn stalked his quarry early in the morning on the side of the mountain just north of Glendora. The deer falling after the fatal shot was fired in less than a mile of the town.

Mr. Kuhn saw three or four deer along the foothills the day before while delivering ice to his customers and once aroused, he could not resist the temptation to try his luck the next day.

ARE YOU PLANTING FLOWERS AND PLANTS?

The Los Angeles Times says that as the prospect of an unparalleled rush of visitors to the Pacific Coast becomes every day more certain, we must not forget the important part Los Angeles will play in entertaining the crowds coming from every state of the union to view our two expositions. Every visitor to San Diego and San Francisco will for a dead certainty include Los Angeles in his itinerary.

We have promised in Los Angeles to show the world such a display of floral beauty as has never before been witnessed. We have got to make that promise good. This can only be done by taking unceasing advantage of the richness of climate and soil with which nature has blessed us. With a proper expenditure of work and money we can prove Los Angeles to be the flower heart of the universe. Every day now should find our citizens, as individuals and civic bodies, doing something to prepare for our great floral display of 1915.

Are you, Mr. Citizen, tending your roses and coaxing your seed beds, so that next summer your gardens may be a blaze of beauty, extraordinary even for this land of roses? Are we preparing in our parks and public places landscape effects by the introduction of novel and artistic devices to make our eastern friends next year open their eyes wide with astonishment? Last spring we started the flower movement with characteristic Californian enthusiasm. We must not let that enthusiasm languish.

From every point of view we have had an ideal spring, summer and early fall. Nature has certainly encouraged flower growers and flower lovers to keep the good work going. Water was never so plentiful nor sunshine so kindly tempered. Next year is exposition year; it is also for Los Angeles flower year. There should be no slacking in our effort. All together; plant, cultivate, tend, prune, fertilize and study the books on gardening.

SAN ANTONIO EXCHANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

POMONA, Sept. 9. — The San Antonio Fruit Exchange, which has headquarters here and embraces as members the citrus fruit shipping associations in Pomona valley, has elected directors as follows for the ensuing year: Fred Smith, president; D. C. Crookshank, vice-president; Dr. Vincent Baker, Frank P. Frey, L. E. Loveland, C. T. Naffel, E. C. Robinson, W. O. Fritz and M. A. St. Clair. The San Antonio Exchange, of which P. J. Dreher is secretary and manager, is one of the largest citrus fruit shipping associations in California, and is an important shipping member of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

The Pomona cannery closed its fruit packing activities today after a successful run on 2,000,000 cans of peaches. During the season the cannery has given employment to a daily average of 300 people. The shipping of canned fruit has been carried on at the rate of a car a day for some time and there are still about a hundred carloads of canned fruit in storage at the cannery which will be sent to market soon.

"GREATEST ON EARTH" COMING TO LOS ANGELES

The Barnum & Bailey circus this season had a wonderful engagement in Madison Square Garden in March, attracting thousands of visitors to New York where the "Greatest Show on Earth" was pronounced by the press and public as "the last word to be written in circuses." Barnum & Bailey will exhibit at Los Angeles, on September 14-15-16.

Everything is new but the name. America's youth demands with each recurring spring and summer the circus' visitation and it demands that it be none other than Barnum & Bailey's. The youth of this country is not to be denied and when the circus reaches his native heath he never lets up until his parents have pledged their word that he can go to the circus. Then his cup of happiness is complete.

The name Barnum & Bailey is a household phrase and the flashing of those names on the billboards and in the newspaper means to the community more than mere words can explain to countless numbers.

A wonderfully brilliant new feature, this year is "The Wizard Prince of Arabia," a romantic pageantry spectacle. Its scenes are from the haunts of the Bedouins in mysterious India, where Prince Abdallah, in the test of stern competition, wins the heart and hand of a king's fair and favorite daughter. This colossal innovation is offered at the opening of the show, thereby doing away with the old stereotyped "grand entree."

More than 1000 people are enlisted in the presentation. The incidental ballet numbers 300 dancing girls. The costumes and the scenic and property investiture are on a scale of bewildering magnitude and magnificence. The stage is one of the largest ever constructed. Forty elephants and hundreds of horses and camels are utilized. An innovative feature of the pageant is a march of 350 persons, all playing musical instruments, around the quarter-mile hippodrome course.

This spectacle is followed by a three hour show in the arena by 350 internationally celebrated acrobats, gymnasts, aerialists, equestrians and hippodrome specialists, and fifty funny clowns, who are right up to the minute. Then there is the mammoth menagerie containing 110 dens of the rarest and costliest animals and hundreds of elephants and camels.

AN OPEN LETTER OF INTEREST TO ALL OUR READERS

A. Lane, Mgr., Barbara Worth Hotel, San Diego, Cal.

Dear Sir:

Before leaving your hotel I am going to write and tell you exactly what I think of you.

I have had occasion to write several hotel managers during my lifetime and believe me, what I had to say was worth reading.

That I am in a position to write intelligently upon hotel matters is evidenced by the fact that I have practically spent the past 10 years of my life in one. I've stopped at hotels from Maine to California. Hotels both great and small. City hotels, country hotels, resort hotels and wayside inns. Some magnificently furnished with ornate entrances, tea rooms, grill rooms, gold rooms, blue rooms, and all sorts of attractive features; others smaller,

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and son, Carl, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jessie Doughty. Mrs. F. D. Worley spent the week-end at Claremont with friends.

WEST COVINA.

Lasselle Brothers Return.

A trip to France, which was accompanied by many dangers, has just been completed by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lasselle and Joseph Lasselle, who spent over six months in the southern part of France and in Spain. The Lasselle Brothers are well-known ranchers in the West Covina valley. This is the first time in many years that they have visited their native country, and they arrived just in time to get mixed up with the war. It was only by a small margin that they escaped being placed in the French army.

Louise Norton entertained last week a party of friends at her home. Those present were: Ella Walters, Marion Warren, Dorothy Kind, Ildra Cashley, and Dorothy Van der Vort. Arthur Covey, who has been visiting his brother, I. Covey, left Wednesday for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hedges spent Sunday at Venice.

Mrs. R. T. Chew, Sr., spent last week with friends in Los Angeles.

with less style, but all of them hotels in spirit as well as in name—no one knows better than I what the word HOTEL stands for.

And what I don't know about California hotels in particular is not worth knowing. Traveling from one end of the state to the other every month as field secretary of the California State Realty Federation, I have visited nearly every hotel in it, and I know California hotels and California hotel managers as probably no one else does, and I must say that of the latter bunch, you are without doubt "the limit."

On all previous visits to San Diego I have always put up at the big hostelry that stands directly opposite across "The Plaza" from the Barbara Worth, but coming down this time I was handed one of your folders, and after reading same, I decided to cut out "the style" this trip and put up with you.

To say that I was skeptical about getting all you promised in your printed matter would be putting it mildly—I did not expect to get half. From a long and varied experience with hotel promises I have got in the habit of discounting same anywhere from 25 per cent to 50 per cent.

When I read in your printed matter that "if not satisfied with hotel after getting in it you would carry me to any other free of charge," I said to myself, "here is one manager that either means business or is going to get himself in trouble," and I made up my mind to "start" the trouble, if necessary.

What was my surprise to find that every word in your folder meant just what it read. You have a good house, you have the best location in the city, you do take good care of your guests, everything is just as you say it is, and I know you now well enough to know you stand ready to back up that unusual hotel manager's offer—I. e., "to pay carriage fare and take an unsatisfied person to some other hotel," and that in my opinion is the acme of all the hotel advertising I have seen in 20 years.

It is needless to say that I did not ask you to take me elsewhere, because I felt "at home" from the very minute of my arrival at your office, and I want to say to you and your good wife (D. R. Lane), right here, that I have never enjoyed my stay in any hotel in the United States, as much as I have in yours—The Barbara Worth of San Diego.

Hoping that you won't be too crowded to take me in next trip, I am Sincerely yours,

JOS. C. PURDY.

Sometimes one can hurt another's feelings worse by a slight action than by any number of words. There is an example of this in the young married woman who went home to her mother and sobbingly declared she just couldn't be happy with her husband again.

"I wouldn't have minded it so much, mother," she sobbed, "if Charlie had answered me back when I scolded him, but—bu—but he did something worse!" Her mother was duly shocked at this.

"Mercy! My dear child," she exclaimed. "He struck you then?" "No; worse than that, mother," and the young wife sobbed afresh. "Tell me at once!" indignantly demanded her mother. "He just yawned!"—Lippincott's.

COST OF LIVING WILL CERTAINLY INCREASE IF WAR CONTINUES

The cost of living has been steadily increasing for some years past; and the fact is, it is, wages have not advanced in proportion; at least not in all lines of work.

Now that the European war is well under way, with a prospect of continuing for some months at least, we must count on still higher prices for food stuffs, especially meat.

There is one staple article of diet that will not be advanced at present—and not at all unless the price of raw material absolutely forces higher prices. We refer to H-O Oatmeal. The H-O Company has a reputation for fair and square dealing that spells protection to the consumer.

H-O Oatmeal is an excellent substitute for meat; and will even take the place of bread to a considerable extent. Made from selected oats, H-O Oatmeal is rich in gluten and other food properties.

Comparatively few people know that H-O is the only Oatmeal that is cooked in the mill, it is the only STEAM-COOKED Oatmeal on the market. Large package for Fifteen Cents, at good Grocers everywhere. —Adv.

VAUDEVILLE SEASON OPENS AT 1818 THEATER

Ethel Burrows, comedy singer and wooden shoe dancer, is one of the attractions at the 1818 theater for tonight. Manager Merwin says that the season for vaudeville has arrived, and he has some especially good bookings for the weeks to come.

On the same program tonight is Ed Welmore, the man with the musical hunch. He plays all kinds of wind instruments, including cornet, saxophone, trombone, and brass horn. He has spent a summer on the Orpheum, and is now doing small time through California. He is especially good. With the vaudeville will be run four reels of snappy pictures, including some comedy, and a drama. Some big feature announcements, such as a Rex Beach film of the far north, will be made soon.

WILL PROTECT WILD LIFE IN SCIENTIFIC MANNER

The California Fish & Game Commission, believing that education as to the necessity and value of game protection and preservation is a more efficient means of conserving the state's game than police patrol, has inaugurated a bureau of research and publicity. Dr. Harold C. Bryant of the University of California, has been placed in charge of the new work. The function of this bureau will be to find ways and means of protecting and preserving foreign and domestic game birds within the state and to dispense information relative to game by means of correspondence, public illustrated lectures, and by the issuance of bulletins dealing with the status of game. A study will also be made of the habits, habits and breeding seasons of the different game birds and mammals of the state so that a basis for sane laws may be afforded.

POMONA VALLEY PROSPERS FROM CITRUS RETURNS

POMONA, Sept. 9.—According to figures presented by the secretaries of the orange and lemon associations of Pomona valley, the citrus fruit growers of this locality will be enriched this season by over $2,000,000 from the shipments made during the past eight months.

A bumper crop is the prediction for Pomona valley the coming season, as this spring and summer has been especially favorable for the setting and sizing up of the young orchards, and with the splendid orchard heating methods employed during any cold weather now the danger of losing the crops by frost is comparatively small.

Several crews of fumigators are now working steadily in Pomona and vicinity fumigating hundreds of acres to protect the trees against scale pests, and the trees are generally in a clean and healthy condition.

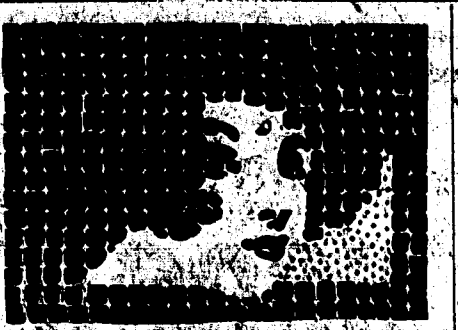

POTATO GROWERS PLAN BARBECUE AT PUENTE

On Tuesday, September 15, at noon, the San Gabriel Valley Potato Growers' Association will hold a barbecue at the Hudson ranch, one mile east of Puente.

This is the fifth year that this association has held a jollification. The potato crop has been a very satisfactory one this summer, and much of the acreage has been replanted for the fall crop. The barbecue attendance will be by invitation this year. The committee is sending out postcards to all who are interested in the potato business in the valley.

"WE USED OUR LIBERTY."

SAYS COVINA WOMAN

We noticed the other week in the Argus the statement that when Republicans came to count Republican ballots they were "disgusted," and when Democrats came to count Democratic votes they too were "disgusted." And why? Because of the scratching. The common person—the individual voter—has come into his own at last.

Under the new primary law, he has great freedom in choosing whom he will nominate. It is truly "disgusting" for the old line politician who is trying so hard to keep us herded like sheep just under his thumb. "They don't know how to vote. They vote just as I tell them," said one politician. But he was mistaken. We are learning, and we didn't. We scratched our tickets—wrote in names, mixed Democrats and Republicans, Progressives and Prohibitionists; just to suit ourselves. Women in particular hunted for dry candidates. We used our liberty. We are beginning to take a healthy, happy interest in our own affairs. It was a little hard on the election board—a matter that can be corrected another time. It was very hard on the patience of the political manager, but haven't people a right to vote for whom they please?

Some of us can remember when the political boss really made all the nominations and the voter was always a little discouraged by being confined to a choice of two evils. He voted, not for candidates, but for a whole Democratic ticket because it was not quite so bad as the Republican, or vice versa.

Every year more people are growing intelligent on these matters and demanding more and more information in our newspapers as to the important things that affect our homes and our lives. We will not be put off with the details of crimes, the sporting news, a society column and a story. We are ever more and more demanding exact facts.

Now we have made our nominations, we, the common man and woman, do not want our papers and political speeches filled with wars, invective or oratory. We want facts—the past record of the public acts of our nominees and the discussion of the principles for which they stand.

We want to know where candidates for congress and the legislature stand on national prohibition, equal suffrage, child labor, other labor questions, etc. They are just as important questions as the tariff.

We want to know where candidates for sheriff stand on the fee question, cost of caring for prisoners, etc.

We wish to hear attorneys and judicial candidates discuss reform in court procedure, the enforcement of the red light abatement act, and prohibition.

We want to know how candidates for supervisor stand on reorganization of the board and on civil service. We want these questions discussed for our benefit.

These are things of importance to us, points on which we need information, and then we will vote intelligently.

ELIZABETH ELSTON

PLACING ROSE TRELLISES ON COVINA BOULEVARD

In company with surveyors in the employ of the county highway department, J. L. Matthews, chairman of the sub-committee on beautifying Los Angeles in preparation for the coming of visitors to the exposition in 1915, began the placing of iron rose-trellises on the Covina boulevard from the Bassett station to San Dimas yesterday.

This is one of the important pieces of work in connection with the all-embracing plans to make the county a paradise of flowers during the coming year. These trellises will be staggered on each side of the boulevard and will be set in cement, making them a permanent improvement. Several varieties of roses have been selected, and a thorough system of irrigation during the first year has been devised by the county department.

ment. These trellises will be placed on all the important boulevards in the county.

The committee having this work in charge is composed of R. L. Blsbe of Long Beach, chairman; J. L. Matthews of Covina, chairman of the special committee; William F. Knight of Pasadena, H. J. Nichols, Pomona, W. H. Evans, Monrovia, T. W. Watson, Glendale.

Cause and Effect.

The tailor's sign in a little inland town was an apple—simply an apple. The people were amazed at it. They came in crowds to the tailor, asking him what on earth was the meaning of the sign.

"The tailor, with a complacent smile replied: 'If it hadn't been for an apple where would the clothing business be today?'"
